AccruePartners' Matthew Carr Promoted to Division Director of Alternative Investments

Charlotte, North Carolina; July, 2015 – AccruePartners, the preeminent Staffing and Executive Search Firm headquartered in Charlotte, NC, is pleased to announce the recent promotion of Matthew Carr to Division Director of Alternative Investments.

Soon after graduating from Le Moyne College (Syracuse, NY) in 2012 with a Bachelors in Business and Leadership, Matthew Carr joined the AccruePartners team as staffing manager for the Accounting and Finance division. Exhibiting a strong work ethic and ability to meet client demands, he was soon promoted to Business Development Manager in his first year with AccruePartners. During that time, Carr began exhibiting a strong interest in the Alternative Investments clientele and facilitated increased awareness of the growing division.. With continued diligence, Carr has built this program to one of the fastest growing divisions within the company – servicing some of the more major cities including Charlotte, New York City, New Jersey, Boston, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

“My passion for the Alternative Investments business comes from the fast pace, energy, and growth of the industry,” states Matt Carr. We get to work with a very select and intelligent client base that consistently challenges us to find the top talent in the country.”

Carr is a graduate of the AccruePartners Emerging Leaders program – a rigorous, year-long effort that identifies the company’s top internal talent to be developed by external leadership expertise. He has also successfully completed the coursework and exams to earn his Certified Staffing Professional designation from the American Staffing Association.

“We are extremely proud to promote Matthew to Director of our Alternative Investments Division. His continued display of business acumen and instinct makes him an obvious choice for this high-growth division of AccruePartners. Our continued success demands leadership that is nimble and proactive in order to build the right team that best suits the needs of our clients.” states Patty Comer, Principal Partner, “We look forward to his continued success.”
